Besides the intellectual and practical efforts to ensure international peace and security this MPHRDS program emphasizes on the regional and national concerns and conditions of peace and human rights. Additionally, it aims to influence the people of the policy cycle as well as the implementers and practitioners such as bureaucrats, security personnel, local leaders, and civil society members for the greater conditions of peace. It not only encourages taking proper and conflict sensitive decision but also assists in executing those policies in such a way that preserves the conditions for peace, avoids and prevents the causes of conflicts, and promotes and protects universal human rights.

Bangladesh as a key contributor of the international peacekeeping missions demands more rigorous and critical intellectual excellence on the issues of peace and human rights. It is noteworthy that since 1988 Bangladesh has been contributing to UN peacekeeping missions, and as of today, Bangladesh has sent troops in more than thirty conflicting theaters of the world. Those missions have brought great honor and pride for the country. It is indispensible to enhance the knowledge for world peace, security and human rights not only for the peacekeeping troops and policy makers but crucially also to integrate civil members of the peacebuilding missions in a comprehensive manner to overcome the 21st century challenges as well as for guaranteeing the longer-term success of such involvements.

This Masters program is designed primarily to understand and share peace and human rights issues related comprehensive knowledge to the fresher, government and non-government professionals, media personnel, development partners, academics and researchers. The main purpose of this academic program is to establish a professionally trained and skilled group of experts, who can take lead in any crisis moment to make, keep and build peace as well as to ensure standards of human rights not only within the national territory but also beyond the borders. The degree to be awarded by the Bangladesh University of Professionals (BUP) is named as Master of Peace and Human Rights Development Studies.

The four-fold objectives of this program are:

- (Firstly), to provide academic education of peace, security, conflict and human rights issues;
• (Secondly), to provide advanced research knowledge to the participants of this program to undertake policy-oriented research and to share the findings of the research among the wider audience; and
• (Thirdly), to create a vibrant civil-military professional body that works in a co-operative manner for the greater pursuit of world peace and universal human rights.
• (Finally), to strengthen the Bangladeshi efforts of international peacemaking, peace keeping and peace-building.

2. Benefits of the Students:

This Master of Peace and Human Rights Development Studies (MPHRDS) is designed in such a way that provides advanced level academic knowledge and empirical understanding both to the fresh graduates as well as in-service professionals and personnel who are enthusiastic to improve their expertise in conflict management, peace-building and maintaining human rights standards in their everyday and professional lives. This program aims to train young professionals as well as in-career peace-makers, peacekeepers and peace-builders who intend to pursue their future career in the areas of peacemaking, peace-building and human rights activism both at home and abroad.

The program put emphasis on multi-layer, multi-phased and cross-cutting issues for a broader understanding of peace, conflict, development, security and human rights. For the course no M PHRDS 2413: UN Peace Operations and Bangladesh, instead of term paper /assignments and presentation (15%) and class test/ active class participation (10%) students shall have to submit a field visit report equivalent to 25% of the total marks. The BUP authority, specifically the Faculty of Security and Strategic Studies (FSSS) will arrange a field visit for 10-15 days for the students. This field visit will be jointly designed in collaboration with different governmental and non-governmental organizations for making arrangements for the students to be a part of an International Peacekeeping Mission where Bangladeshi troops are deployed for maintaining peace and security or to visit BIPSOT for 2-3 days or to visit some government (concern ministry) or non-government organizations in Bangladesh that work for peace, security, development and/or human rights.

After spending the visit, the group of the students will return submit a ‘Field Visit Report’ equivalent to 25 marks within next 30 days for appraisal.
If none of these options of field visit and subsequent reports are possible to arrange, then this course will also follow the regular process of assessment.

Additionally, depending on the nature of courses minor modifications can be done under the jurisdiction of respective course teacher, which will be incorporated in the course outline later.

11.2 Course Conduct and Assessment Procedure:
In order to conduct courses, the respective course teachers will carry out and ensure the following:

I. At the beginning of the semester, the course teacher will prepare a course outline based on the principles outlined in the detailed course syllabus, performance evaluation and grading policy (as per outlined in this document), follow and improve the list of suggested reading books and references, and a tentative schedule of classes, examinations and other relevant academic events. The course teacher will provide a copy of the course outline to each student of the course. The respective teacher will also submit a copy of the course outline to the Faculty office.

II. The respective course teacher will conduct 2 (two) classes each week for this Masters program. Each class will be of 90 minutes of duration, and additional 15 minutes will be for student consultation as per the course outline.

III. The course teacher will assign, either individually or in group, a term paper or assignment on any issue importantly relevant to the course. As per the course requirements, the course teacher will arrange presentation classes for such term paper or assignment presentations, where individual students and/or all members of the group will get equal time for presenting their works.

IV. The course teachers will take mid-term examinations when the coordinator will arrange for it (preferably middle of the semester). There will be no scope for students to re-taking the mid-term examination. However, in case of sickness, hospitalization or other unavoidable circumstance student will be permitted to appear only when the course coordinator and course teacher are informed well before the examination starts and immediately applies with all supporting documents. Final decision in such circumstances belongs at the discretion of the Dean, FSSS.

V. While aggregating and tabulating total marks in any subject, marks will be rounded up to the advantage of the students; for example, any fraction will be rounded up to the next number.

VI. Final examination will take place as per the scheduled date fixed by the FSSS.

11.3 Examination System
A single examiner system will be followed for evaluating exam scripts of the final examination (50 Marks of each course). All other tests, assignments, term papers, and class performance will also be evaluated by the course teacher. The course teacher will make available the scripts, assignments, term papers etc. to the students in the classroom in the following weeks, except those of the final examination.

Before the final examination, respective course teacher is required to submit all scripts, assignments etc. a compiled up-to-date Session result summary to the Controller of the Examination of BUP.

The question of the final examination will be set by the course teacher, and submit that to the Controller of Examination of BUP.

The Controller of Examination makes arrangement to moderate the question through a Moderation Committee, and then arrange for its printing, safe custody and conducting the Final Examination.
After the examination, the question setter will evaluate the scripts and deposit the marks to the Controller of Examination of BUP. Once all the marks are submitted to the Controller of Examination, he/she will take initiative to tabulate the marks in combination of two designated tabulators.

Sessional Marks of the course teacher will be added with the markers of the final examination. Final marks (out of 50) with the Sessional Marks (50) to be calculated together for 100 marks of each the course.

However, despite following this rigorous process of examination system, in any case of grievances expressed by any student in writing to the Controller of Examination within three days of provisional result publication, Controller of Examinations reserves the right to arrange for re-securitization of the particular student’s script and publishing of final results.
